Informational letter

Dear colleagues!

Students' Scientific Society of the School of Medicine of Far Eastern Federal University invites students, residents, and young scientists (aged 35 and younger) from universities and scientific research institutions of the Far Eastern Federal District and other regions of the Russian Federation to participate in the II young scientists' Conference «Медицина Будущего».

Dates of the Conference: April 24–27, 2023.

Venue of the Conference: «Far Eastern Federal University»

Address: Primorsky Krai, Vladivostok, Russky Island, Ayaks village, building M.

To participate in the conference, please fill the application in the google registration form and submit your abstract in it until 23:59 March 31, 2023 (Vladivostok time zone, GMT+10).

Possible forms of participation in the conference:

- 1) verbal presentation and publication.
- 2) publication.

You can find the requirements in Appendix 1.

There will be one conference Sub-forum for international students (working language – English) - Clinical medicine. This sub-forum will include the following topics:

- Internal diseases
- Surgical diseases

The conference will create conditions for building a professional dialogue and informal communication among young scientists.

For non-resident students a cultural program and accommodation in hotel buildings on the FEFU campus at a reduced rate will be provided.

Please note that transportation to the conference venue and meals are paid by participants on their own.

In the aftermath of the conference, a collection of scientific publication will be released, which will include abstracts that have successfully passed the evaluation.

Collection of scientific publications will be included in the Russian Science Citation Index (RSCI) and in the scientific electronic library elibrary.ru.

Should you have additional questions, please contact us via email: conf.shm.dvfu@gmail.com.
